

Four Damascus High School sophomores were indicted on eight counts of rape, attempted rape and conspiracy to commit rape for allegedly sodomizing freshman players with a broomstick last month, Montgomery County State's Attorney John McCarthy told "Good Morning America" on Friday.

Under Maryland law, the 15-year-old suspects, identified as Jean Claude "JC" Abedi, Kristian "KJ" Jamal Lee, Will Daniel Smith and Caleb Thorpe, who were charged as adults, could face up to life in prison over their alleged involvement.

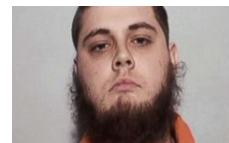

Four sophomore junior varsity football players from Damascus High School in Montgomery Co

"Some people have used the term 'hazing' in relation to this, but this is not hazing," McCarthy said. "We take this seriously and I'm not looking to send a message to anybody beyond the boys that were the victims in this case and those who committed these crimes that there will be accountability

Would-be eco-terrorist corresponded with Charleston church shooter: Officials

Man accused of plotting attack against synagogue was inspired by Pittsburgh massacre

8 people, including a teen boy, investigated for disco stampede deaths: Prosecutors

5 children under the age of 10 die in house fire

'Nazi-themed'

when you engaged in the kind of activities that these boys engaged in.”

(MORE: 4 high school football players charged for allegedly raping teammates with broom, prosecutors say)

The Oct. 31 assaults came to light when the father of one of the victims found him sobbing in his room later that night and reported it to the school, according to charging documents. The high school's principal "reported an assault involving a broom" the next day, according to the document from last week's charges.

"JC Abedi and KJ Lee grabbed [victim B] by the shoulders and threw him on the floor. One of them held his feet down and while he was face down on the ground, his pants were pulled down and he was 'poked in his buttocks with the wooden broom.'"

Four sophomore junior varsity football players from Damascus High School in Montgomery Co

The sophomores allegedly assaulted each freshman posters found on college campus, police say

'Nightmare and a tragedy': Massive snowstorm leaves at least 2 dead as South digs out

Maria Butina, accused Russian agent, appears poised to plead guilty

The View: Former New York City mayor takes GOP, Trump to task

Pence's chief of staff will not take over White House role after John Kelly leaves

The Note: Mueller presents new political peril for Trump

Chris Christie: Trump 'not totally clear' until Mueller 'hands in the keys'

Pardoning

individually, according to the documents. At least two of the defendants could be heard laughing during the attack as one of the alleged victims yelled and screamed, according to the prior documents.

The suspects allegedly pulled the another victim's hoodie "over the top of his head, punched him in the face, knocked him on his back and stomped on him," during the assault, the arrest documents stated.

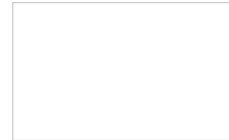

Four sophomore junior varsity football players from Damascus High School in Montgomery Co

One victim told police that "someone in the locker room stated that it would be good to do it to" him as well, before Abedi, Lee and Smith proceeded to hold him "face down on a bench in the locker room and pulled down his uniform practice pants and blue boxer shorts," according to the documents, which identified the victim as "Victim C."

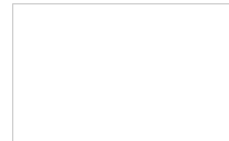

Victim C stated that "that they 'stabbed' his buttocks several times," according to the documents. He described the broomstick as a wooden handle with a "cut on the tip of it"

Paul Manafort would be 'terrible mistake': Sen. Marco Rubio

Senate Dem: Mueller probe now 'beyond the stage' of Clinton impeachment

Comey: FBI probe of Russia initially looked at 4 Americans

Trump directed Cohen to make hush money payments during 2016 campaign: Prosecutors

Manafort lied about contact with administration officials: Special counsel

Fact Check Friday: Trump's tariff-ically false claims and more

Trump praises new AG pick at law enforcement and said the assault went on for about 10 seconds before Abedi, Lee and Smith proceeded to do the same thing to another member of the Junior Varsity football team.

(MORE: Anti-hazing law named after Penn State fraternity pledge goes into effect in Pennsylvania)

Another student who was involved as both a victim and suspect. That student was not identified "because he is a juvenile and is not being charged as an adult," according to the arrest warrants. The status of his case, or what he is being charged with, are unclear.

Authorities are now investigating if similar attacks have occurred in the past. One victim was told the act was a tradition at the school, but investigators have not "sustained or found any confirmed case of this ever happening before."

"We have pledged to the community to look beyond the incidents of Halloween this year, 2018, when this event took place to look back to prior years and we will fully investigate along with Montgomery police whether this has happened before," McCarthy told "GMA." "Is it urban lore or is this reality? We're trying to find out what the truth of it is and quite candidly as I sit here today, I don't know the answer to that question."

Authorities executed a search warrant for the locker room and collected a wooden broomstick as evidence, according to the court documents.

Defense attorney David Felsen, who is representing Smith, conference

Mia Love says 'it wasn't my job' to be in 'lockstep' with Trump

Trump nominates new chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff

Everything you need to know about John Kelly, Trump's chief of staff

Theresa May says she will delay a planned vote on Brexit despite furious Parliament

Legendary Russian human rights activist Lyudmila Alexeyeva dies at 91

Deadline for enrolling in Obamacare's marketplaces is fast approaching

Ghosn, Kelly, Nissan charged with underreporting pay told ABC News that he planned to file a motion to have the case sent back to juvenile court, which McCarthy said was "standard procedure." Thorpe's attorney, Shelly Brown, also said her client "should be treated as a child in the justice system."

(MORE: 9 face charges in Florida State University student's hazing death)

"Jean-Claude is a young man who is caught up in case that is larger than him," Abedi's attorney, Daniel Wright, told ABC News following the rape charge. "Why is the school and the state seeking to fix all of the blame only on children?"

Jason Downs, Lee's attorney, did not respond to a request for comment, but said in court on Tuesday that his client was being painted as much more involved than he actually was.

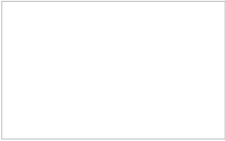

A spokesman for Montgomery County Public Schools did not immediately respond to ABC News' request for comment.

Editor's note: A previous version of this story incorrectly stated what the four people have been charged with. They were indicted on eight counts each of rape, attempted rape and conspiracy to commit rape, according to the district attorney's office. The story has been updated.

ABC News' Julia Jacobo and Stephanie Ramos contributed to this report.

Texas firefighters save more than 100 snakes in house fire

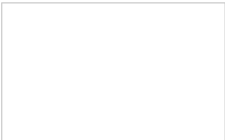

Jury to recommend sentence for white nationalist

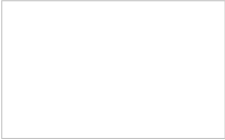

'Fearless Girl' statue gets new permanent home

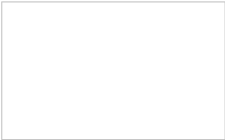

Activists again demand Green New Deal; stage demonstration at Dem leaders' offices

'Darkness has tried to swallow us whole,' says mother of Charlottesville victim

Man shot while campaigning for political candidate in Chicago

Sarah Hyland reveals serious health struggles, past

Sponsored Stories

Recommended by |